THE ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE
OF THE
TOWN OF HAMPSTEAD, N. H.

FOR THE YEAR ENDING MARCH 1, 1879.

I herewith respectfully submit the following report of the Schools committed to my charge for the past school year.

SCHOOLS.	PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEES.	TEACHERS.
District No. 1.	MR. ORREN E. FOLANSBEE,	MISS ORRIE B. LITTLE.
" 2.	MR. RUFUS C. SMITH,	MISS ANNIE E. GEORGE.
" 3.	MR. D. L. N. HOYT,	MISS SUSAN F. GOODWIN.
" 4.	MR. DANIEL F. ORDWAY,	MISS L. ADA EASTMAN.
" 5.	MR. WALLACE BAILEY,	MISS NELLIE R. WILLIAMS.
" 6.	MR. JAMES F. LOVEJOY,	MISS SOPHIA MOULTON.
" 7.	MR. LUTHER TOBYNE,	MISS ALMIRA J. EATON.

At the beginning of the year all the teachers presented themselves for examination, and received their certificates before entering upon their duties.

It is worthy of note that there has been no change of teachers during the year, and better still, none was needed or desired. The gentlemen composing the Prudential Committees evidently believe that it is best to "let well enough alone" in school matters, and not give up a certainty for an uncertainty, to the great injury of the school.

The teachers in Districts No. 2, 3, 6 and 7, have had a large experience in teaching, which has been turned to good account during the past year. By their general demeanor and their methods of imparting instruction they have shown that they fully appreciate a teacher's duties, and are perfectly at home in the school room. In the schools under their care a good work has been done. No one who has watched these schools during the year, could fail to see that a decided improvement has been made.

To the teachers in Districts No. 1, 4 and 5, the work was new, and therefore it could not be expected that they would at once enter upon their duties like those who had been engaged in the work for 10 or 20 years. They have, however, succeeded admirably, and without doubt have fully met the expectations of the committees who engaged them. Two of them are virtually graduates of the Hampstead High School, and they reflect great credit on that institution as a teacher making power.

The Prudential Committees have been very fortunate in the selection of their teachers. Without a single exception they have given general satisfaction. There has been no conflict between parents and teachers. No disturbance in the schools. Harmony has prevailed. Strict attention has been given to business, and as a result the schools are now in a very prosperous condition. But let no one imagine that we claim for them perfection. They can be made much better, and we trust they will be, by a determined effort on the part of the teachers and parents. To this end we would respectfully submit the following SUGGESTIONS.

TO TEACHERS. 1st. Consider well the material on which you work, and learn the power of adaptation.

The art of teaching is emphatically a practical one. A knowledge of the theories of this art is a necessary part of the education of a good teacher, but sound common sense, and a habit of observation are even more essential. As the minds of pupils are not all cast in the same mold, so the methods of the teacher should not always be after the same pattern. Your great effort should be not so much to put in as to develop and draw out. Make the best of your pupils such as they are. Take into consideration their capacities and surroundings, and alter your mode of teaching as the varying needs of the class seem to require.

2nd. In all your dealings with your pupils combine firmness with kindness, so that while you win their affection, you may at the same time command their respect.

3rd. Give some attention to the physical well-being of your pupils. They are, many of them, very susceptible to chills, colds, etc., and not so well able to bear them as older people. Insist upon having a thermometer in your school room, even though you have to pay for it yourself. Without this it is impossible for you to keep your school room at an even temperature. Open the windows freely at recess, so as to change the air, and let your pupils have all the exercise they need.

TO PARENTS. 1st. Let your children be well supplied with the necessary text-books. An Edison may perhaps do good work without the appropriate tools, but all your children are not Edisons, and then even Edison can do better work with good tools than he can without them, as his more recent inventions have shown.

2nd. Keep your children at school every day if possible. Irregular attendance is the parent of innumerable evils. By being kept out of school, money really belonging to the district is lost. The scholar loses his place in the class, gets behind in his studies, wastes the time belonging to the school by calling the teacher to go over the work done during absence, gets discouraged in his study, gives up work and is liable to become a trouble to the school. If kept at home for little things, things that might be done at other times, and often by other hands, the scholar is made to feel that the school is of little importance and an education of little value.

3rd. Act in harmony with the teacher and do all you can to make the school successful.

Let the one who teaches your children feel that she has your sympathy and co-operation in all that pertains to the school. Do not criticise her in the presence of your children, but rather speak kindly of her. Visit the school often, and as far as possible make it what it ought to be. Remember the children in these schools are your children, and their interests are your interests.
